Welcome to the 2025 Family Resource Festival!

We're so glad you're here! Each year, the Center for Child Protection hosts this free, family-friendly festival to bring our community together and connect families with important resources and services. We believe that strong families build strong communities—and while we're passionate about supporting families across Travis County, we know we can't do it alone.

That's why we're excited to be partnering with over 30 incredible local organizations this year. From health and wellness to education, employment, housing, and more, our partners are here to support you and your family in every way they can.

This Family Resource Guide is your go-to tool for learning more about each participating organization, including how to reach them after the event. Whether you're looking for help today or in the future, we hope this guide makes it easier to find what you need.

Enjoy the festival—we're so happy you came!

Warmly,
